From nursing school to a career abroad.

A clearer, more affordable path to the NCLEX.

A partnership program connecting nursing schools, their graduates and hospitals in the U.S., Canada and Australia, built to improve one thing: the Quality of Life (QoL) of every nurse who takes this journey, and of the families who depend on them.

The challenge

Hospitals in the United States, Canada and Australia report ongoing nursing shortages, especially in rural areas. All three countries use the NCLEX-RN: it is the U.S. and Canadian licensure exam, and Australia uses it in its assessment of internationally qualified nurses. For a BSN graduate in Pakistan, India or the Philippines, the costs add up fast, and the exam's style is often very different from what nursing school prepared them for.

What the partnership brings together

1

Nursing schools

Offer their graduates a structured, affordable NCLEX preparation path, and see their names celebrated worldwide.

2

Graduates

Practice with an AI tutor, learn live from licensed nurses who volunteer as Helping Hands, and compete for prizes that help cover exam fees.

3

Hospitals

Post nursing vacancies free of charge. Nurses apply directly to the hospital. We never stand in the middle.

What LaunchPAD Nursing offers

AI tutor
Explains every missed practice question step by step, any time of day.

NCLEX-style practice
Original practice questions and study plans built on the exam's public test plan.

Live classes
Free live review sessions from licensed nurses who volunteer as Helping Hands.

Free job board
Hospitals post nursing vacancies at no cost; nurses apply directly.

Honor Roll
Graduates who pass the NCLEX, and their schools, celebrated on WorldVybes (with consent).

Prizes for excellence
Contests whose prizes can help the brightest graduates cover their exam fees.

The real costs, and how we help

Planning starts with honest numbers. These are the NCLEX exam fees published by NCSBN, the organization that runs the exam:

NCLEX-RN FEE (U.S. AND AUSTRALIA)	AMOUNT
Registration fee	US $200
International scheduling fee (testing outside the U.S. and Canada, non-refundable)	US $150
Registration fee from February 1, 2027	US $350
Licensure, credential evaluation and English-test fees	Set by each authority

In Canada the registration fee is CA $360, rising to CA $570 on February 1, 2027. Source: NCSBN, nclex.com. Fees can change; always check the official site before paying.

HOW LAUNCHPAD NURSING HELPS

- Free to start. Practice questions and the AI tutor are free to try; full access will cost a nominal fee, like our SAT program ($9 a month in South Asia).
- Prepare smarter. Practice on your weakest areas, with an explanation for every mistake.
- Learn from those who passed. Live classes by licensed nurses volunteering their time.
- Prizes that cover fees. Our contests can reward the brightest graduates with prizes that help pay for the exam.
- Find a job directly. Browse vacancies posted by hospitals and apply to them yourself, free.

A word of honesty. LaunchPAD Nursing is new. Our SAT program is live today; the NCLEX practice content is being built now, together with our founding partner schools and volunteer nurse educators. Founding partners will shape it from the start.

WHAT WE NEVER DO

- We never charge nurses any fee for a job or a placement.
- We are not a recruitment agency and do not take part in hiring decisions.
- We do not give immigration or visa advice. Visa timelines vary and can take a long time; nurses should rely on official sources and licensed advisors.
- Practice scores are estimates for study, never official results.

Our commitments

1. Recognition for your institution
   Partner nursing schools are named on WorldVybes. Graduates who pass the NCLEX join the LaunchPAD Nursing Honor Roll, with their school's name, on the WorldVybes bulletin board, in our groups and on our LinkedIn and Facebook pages, always with each graduate's written consent (Form B).

2. Free job postings for hospitals
   Hospitals in the U.S., Canada and Australia can post nursing vacancies at no charge. Applicants contact the hospital directly, and the hiring process stays entirely between employer and applicant.

3. Prizes for excellence
   We will keep creating contests that reward graduates for preparing and succeeding, with prizes that can help cover exam fees.

4. Quality of Life (QoL)
   Every decision we make is measured by one question: does it improve the quality of life of the nurse, their family and the patients they will care for?

ETHICAL BY DESIGN

- We respect the WHO Global Code of Practice on the International Recruitment of Health Personnel, including the extra safeguards for countries on the WHO health workforce support and safeguards list.
- We do not actively recruit nurses. Graduates choose their own path, and the same preparation raises nursing standards at home as well as abroad.
- Hospitals post vacancies; nurses apply directly. No fees are ever charged to nurses for jobs.
